GILLIAN FELLOWS-JENSEN, Institut for Navneforskning, Njalsgade 80, DK-2300 København S., Denmark, is a specialist in Scandinavian names. Her bibliography and commentary should prove to be among the more valuable contributions we have published in Names. In future issues, up-to-date reports will be published. JÓNAS FINNO-BOGASON lives in Iceland and submitted his review through JUDITH WEISE, English Department, State University College, Potsdam, NY 13676; she translated the review and added substantially to it. DAVID L. GOLD teaches in the Yiddish Studies Program, University of Haifa, Mount Carmel, Haifa 31 999, Israel. JEFFREY J. GORDON, Geography, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio 43403, is making his first appearance in Names. Having taught and studied in the North Country, New York, he has a thorough knowledge of Iroquois culture. ULRICH GROENKE, Universität zu Köln Institut für Nordische Philologie, Albertus-Magnus-Platz, 5000 Köln 41, West Germany, has long been a contributor to Names and a member of the Society. He reminded me that anecdotal material should be washed out of manuscripts, but this time I overruled him. ANDRÉ LAPIERRE, Linguistics, University of Ottawa, 78 Laurier E. Ottawa, Ontario, K1N 6N5, Canada, is active in many organizations, especially the Canadian Society for the Study of Names. He is an officer in ANS and has been a most valuable contributor and consultant. CELIA and RICHARD MILLWARD, 53 Forest St., Providence, RI 02906, actually do more than scoot down snowy hillsides. Celia teaches in the English Department at Boston University and has recently published an excellent textbook. She also has become something of an old China hand, as her previous article in Names indicates. In addition, she has served as a careful reader of manuscripts for Names. W. F. H. NICOLAISEN, English and Folklore, State University of New York, Binghamton, NY 13903, has been and still is a major figure in onomastics. He hardly needs introduction now, but perhaps high fives or hands around would be appropriate for his latest accomplishments and honors to be announced later. BERNARD C. PETERS, Geography, Northern Michigan University, Marquette, MI 49855, is making his first appearance in Names, but he has been active in placename study and has read papers at the North Central Names Institute. RICHARD R. RANDALL, whose report on standardization of placenames for international purposes should make us aware of the need for a standardization somewhere, serves well as the Executive Secretary of the United States Board on Geographic Names, with the address of Defense Mapping Agency, Bldg. 56, U.S. Naval Observatory, Washington, DC 20305. He will edit a future issue of Names. The panel he arranged in cooperation with the American Association of Geographers in Washington, April 1984, was a success. Professor Doctor GERHARD ROHLFS, 74 Tübingen 5, Hirscholde 5, West Germany, is one of Europe's leading placename authorities. Although he has been a member of the American Name Society for many years, this is his first appearance in Names. VIVIAN ZINKIN has contributed major articles before; her address: 1823 Attaya Road, Lakewood, NJ 08701. Although they are not mentioned in the actual contributors, William Loy and Wilbur Zelinsky read all the articles in this issue and sometimes made suggestions that radically changed the content. Those who had to revise their articles in light of critiques by Professor Loy and Zelinsky can silently thank them for their help. I often do.
