
Contributors

Grady Clay, 330 Wildwood Place, Louisville, KY 40206, is an author and urban consultant. For many years he was Editor of the magazine Landscape Architecture and among his books is Closeup: How to Read the American City. His current project, The Gazetteer of the New American Generic Manmade Landscape, will be published within the next year or two.

Robert F. Fleissner is Professor of English in the Department of English, Theatre, and Communications, Central State University, Wilberforce, OH 45384. He has published extensively in literary onomastics, and his book on Shakespeare devotes a large share of space to name study.

Thomas J. Gasque is Professor of English, University of South Dakota, Vermillion, SD 57069. For the last five years he has been Editor of Names, and this issue is his final one. He hopes to have time to devote to his study of placenames in South Dakota.

Rami W. Hamdallah is Assistant Professor of Applied Linguistics, Department of English, An-Najah National University, Nablus, West Bank (via Israel). He chairs the English Department and is Dean of the Faculty of Arts at An-Najah University.

W.F.H. Nicolaisen is Honorary Research Fellow, Department of English, University of Aberdeen, Aberdeen AB9 2UB, Scotland, UK. He is also Secretary-General of the International Committee of Onomastic Sciences (ICOS).

Philip Rolnick is Assistant Professor of Religion and Philosophy, Greensboro College, Greensboro, NC 27401. His research in religious semantics will culminate in a book to be published in 1993.

Adrian Room, 12 High Street, St. Martin's, Stamford, Lincolnshire PE9 2LF, UK, is the author of a number of books on names and many other subjects. His latest book, A Dictionary of First Names, will be published by Barnes and Noble in 1993.

Charlotte Schapira is Senior Lecturer and Head of the French Unit, Department of General Studies, Technion, Israel Institute of Technology, Haifa 32000, Israel. She has published in the fields of Romance linguistics, stylistics, and narratology. Her onomastic interest centers on names in Maupassant.

330 Contributors

Grant Smith is Professor of English, Eastern Washington University, Cheney, WA 99004. In addition to his work on the placenames of Washington and his role as Director of the Placename Survey of the United States (PLANSUS), he is actively researching names in the works of Shakespeare.

Abraham Stahl is Senior Lecturer at the School of Education, The Hebrew University, Jerusalem 90905, Israel. His main interest is the education of the culturally disadvantaged and the use of ethnic culture in the schools. He has published on the culture of Oriental Jews, including Jewish family names of the different communities in Israel's population.

Hanna Y. Tushyeh is Associate Professor in the Department of English, Bethlehem University, P.O.B. 9, Bethlehem, West Bank (via Israel). His research on Palestinian first names, co-authored with Edwin Lawson and George K. Rishmawi, appeared in Names in 1989. He was recently appointed to chair the English Department at Bethlehem University.

Philip L. Wagner is Professor Emeritus of Geography, Simon Fraser University, Burnaby, BC V5A 1S6, Canada. He took time to look into the telephone book collection when he was a Visiting Professor in the Department of Geography at the University of Texas in Austin.