

Contributors to Volume 45, Number 1

Robert K. Herbert is Professor of Anthropology at Binghamton University (SUNY), Binghamton, NY 13902-6000. He was previously Professor of African Languages at Witwatersrand University, Johannesburg, South Africa, where the research for the present article was conducted. His research interests lie in sociolinguistics, African studies, and classroom ethnography. email: herbert@binghamton.edu

Albert Mehrabian, Department of Psychology, University of California, Los Angeles, CA 90095, has published widely in the areas of names, emotions, temperament, and measurement. His more recent books include Nonverbal Communication, Public Places and Private Spaces, and The Name Game: The Decision that Lasts a Lifetime. email: mehrab@ucla.edu

Angela G. Ray is a graduate student in the Department of Speech-Communication at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455. Her interests include American and British culture of the nineteenth century and human perception of the natural world. An earlier article, "Calling the Dog: The Sources of AKC Breed Names," appeared in the March, 1995 issue of Names.