

Contributors to Volume 46, Number 2

Laurie K. Scheuble is Professor of Sociology at Doane College, Crete, NE 68333. She and David R. Johnson have presented several papers and published several articles on marital naming. They are currently conducting additional research on marital naming and children's last names when parents have different surnames. She is also interested in methods of survey research. email: lscheuble@doane.edu

David R. Johnson is Professor of Sociology and Director of the Bureau of Sociological Research at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE 68588-0324. He has published more than 50 articles on divorce, marital quality, mental health, and quantitative research methods, in addition to those on marital naming. email: djohnson2@unl.edu

Robert B. Marks Ridinger, Electronic Information Resources librarian at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, IL 60115, is currently exploring the role of onomastics in gay and lesbian studies. He has published on this topic in the Journal of Homosexuality (1995). He is author of The Gay and Lesbian Movement: References and Resources (1997). email: rridinger@niu.edu

Thomas E. Murray, Professor of English at Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506-0701, has written numerous essays on aspects of American English, sociolinguistics, methodology and pedagogy, as well as onomastics. The current essay is a companion piece to "The Nicknames of American Greek-Letter Organizations," which appeared in the September, 1992 issue of Names. email: tem@ksu.edu