

Contributors to Volume 50, Number 3

Vivian de Klerk is Professor and Head of the Department of English Language and Linguistics at Rhodes University, Grahamstown 6140, South Africa. She has chaired the Provincial Language Council for Eastern Cape Province and is on the editorial boards of English World Wide and the Southern African Journal of Linguistics and Applied Language Studies. She is the Rhodes University Public Orator and a member of the English National Language Body. v.deklerk@ru.ac.za

Edwin D. Lawson, Professor Emeritus of psychology at the State University of New York College at Fredonia, has been active in name studies for more than 30 years. He has published more than 35 articles on onomastics as well as two annotated bibliographies, Personal Names and Naming (1987) and More Names and Naming (1995). He is a past president of the American Name Society. lawson@fredonia.edu

Li Zhonghua teaches courses in English language and literature at the Ocean University of Qingdao, Qingdao 266017, China. He has published extensively on onomastics and also on English literature. His Dictionary of Chinese Given Names will be published in late 2002. lizhonghua86@21cn.com

Themba Moyo is Acting Head of the General Linguistics Department at the University of Zululand, Kwadlangezwa 3886, South Africa. His interests include language learning, language teaching, and applied linguistics. He is researching aspects of names and naming in Malawi and South Africa. He recently completed a preliminary investigation of placenames in KwaZulu-Natal. ctmoyo@pan.uzulu.ac.za

Thomas E. Murray is in the English Department at Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506, where he teaches classes in linguistics and the English language. His research interests are in American English, language variation, and onomastics. He hopes not to regret the decision he and his wife made to hyphenate their daughter's surname. tem@juno.com