

Contributors to Volume 52, Number 1

Amy Leal recently defended her dissertation on Keats for the English doctoral program at the CUNY Graduate Center. Last year she participated in an Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Fellowship on "Writing Lives." She has taught literature at Hunter, Baruch, and Queens Colleges and is currently finishing a CUNY Writing Fellowship. In December 2003, she participated in an American Names Society panel on "Naming and Unnaming" at the Modern Language Association Convention and will be presenting a paper at the 43rd Annual Names Institute. She has written for the Village Voice and is currently working on an article on naming in Le Fanu's "Carmilla" as well as a book about Keats and suspicion.

Her address is 568 Driggs Ave. #6, Brooklyn, NY 11211, and she can also be reached via e-mail at amyrleal@aol.com.

Andrew Cowell works at the cross-section of literature, linguistics, and anthropology within the Linguistics and French Departments at the University of Colorado. Other onomastic work includes an article forthcoming in Anthropological Linguistics on Arapaho placenames and an article forthcoming in the Papers of the 36th Algonquian Conference on the linguistic structure of Arapaho personal names. He is now finishing an anthology of Arapaho oral narratives as well as a book on the Anthropology of the Medieval Warrior Aristocracy.

He can be contacted at Department of Linguistics, Campus Box 295, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309.