

Contributors to Volume 52, Number 4

Ernest L. Abel is Professor of Obstetrics/Gynecology and Professor of Psychology, and Distinguished Faculty, at Wayne State University. He has published widely on the subjects of fetal alcohol syndrome, drugs and behavior, and the Civil War. His last two books in the latter category are Singing The New Nation, and Confederate Sheet Music. He can be reached at eabel@wayne.edu.

Michael McCafferty is an ethnolinguist. He teaches Nahuatl at Indiana University, Bloomington. His research interests include the Miami-Illinois language, North American French linguistics, the historic Algonquian-French interface in the mid-continent, including Algonquian and French onomastics, and late prehistoric/proto-historic tribe distributions in the mid-continent. He is the authority on Native American place names in Indiana and Illinois. He can be reached at mmccaffe@indiana.edu