

Notes on Contributors

LURLINE H. COLTHARP recently served as President of the American Name Society and is the author of many books and articles on names and American speech. NISSIM ELIASSAF is an analyst in the Computer Department, Population Administration, Ministry of the Interior, State of Israel. ROBERT A. FOWKES is a frequent contributor to Names and Verbatim. KELSIE B. HARDER served several years as Executive Secretary of the American Name Society. STEWART A. KINGSBURY teaches at Northern Michigan University and directs the Place Name Survey of the area. EDWIN D. LAWSON is Professor of Psychology at the State University College, Fredonia, New York, and has been published in Names several times. ELSDON C. SMITH has served twice as President of the American Name Society, of which he is a Founder, and is both Attorney for the Society and Book Review Editor. ROBERT J. THROCKMORTON, an elementary school assistant principal, recently won the Hamilton Publishing Award for his poem, "The Picnic in the Woods."

* * *

International Committee of Literary Onomastics

Professor Grace Alvarez-Altman was elected President of the ICLO, which is to have its first formal meeting as an allied organization during the International Congress of Onomastic Sciences, August 1984, at the University of Leipzig, East Germany. The committee is made up of sixteen professors, representing their respective countries. For more information, write to

Professor Grace Alvarez-Altman
Department of Foreign Languages
State University College
Brockport, NY 14420